ANTI-AGEING TREATMENTS

The skin on your hands, neck and chest is more delicate and thinner than others of your body or face. It therefore benefits from appropriate anti-ageing treatments and products to effectively achieve younger looking skin.

EXCESSIVE SWEATING

Excessive sweating (also known as hyperhidrosis) is a common condition where the body produces excessive amounts of perspiration. The affected areas are usually armpits, chest, hands and feet which can be left constantly feeling damp. This can lead to embarrassment both at work or socially, and normal everyday activities sometimes become difficult to carry out. We offer a quick and simple way to stop excessive sweating - which will totally transform your life.
